The Hare is always looking for ideas and articles. Whether this be something relevant to your village or locality, or just something in which you have an interest and would like to share with others, then please contact us. We would welcome your input.

The Queen's Jubilee – save the date!

Our three Parish Councils have agreed for The Hub to take the lead in organising the celebrations for the Jubilee and ensuring we incorporate all three villages. A few ideas have been kicked around, but nothing definite as yet. If anyone would like to be involved in the organisation of this event please let Julie Collett know (details on back page).

Just in case you haven't heard, there is an extended bank holiday over the weekend of 2nd - 5th June so please save Friday 3rd June in your diaries!

Fly tipping again!

The growing problem of fly tipping seems to have reared its head in our local area of late. This illegal activity is actually punishable by a maximum sentence of 5 years imprisonment and a possible unlimited fine or conviction. Suffolk recycling are running a campaign to ask people to ensure that anyone disposing of waste on their behalf is licensed to do so. Make sure you ask questions and refuse any "unexpected offers" to remove waste.

If you see anyone fly tipping they ask that you report it along with vital details: date and time, description of person(s), vehicle(s) and type of rubbish.

Photographic evidence can be useful but only if it is safe to do so – do not approach the culprits or do anything to put yourself at risk. Contact them on 0333 016 2000 or at https://my.eastsuffolk.gov.uk/service/Flytipping_or Litter Report

Congratulations!

Mrs Mary Hardy, a resident of Ubbeston, celebrates her 100th birthday in February. Many congratulations to you!

Kids Club

Stop, start, stop, start... sounds like a game at Kids Club!

Let's try again. We aim to restart on Friday 4th March at 4pm in The Hub. Please come and support our club if you have children aged between 5 - 11 years. Rising 5's are welcome if supervised by an adult. Kids Club is open to all children in Huntingfield and the surrounding villages, the more the merrier!

Arms Events

Well, that's January over and done with and it's full swing into the rest of 2022! To help you break all those New Year resolutions we're introducing loyalty cards in February. For every 10 pints of beer/lager/cider or 10 large glasses of wine you are entitled to free (eat in) fish and chips! Who can resist?

By the time you read this we'll have hosted our first "traditional" games night featuring Dominoes, Scrabble and even Shove ha'penny.. not a gadget in sight! If it proves popular we'll be adding it as a regular event.

Our next Charity Quiz Night is Tuesday 8th February. A maximum of four per team at £2 per person (including chips). All proceeds from this evening will go to the Air Ambulance and the winning team picks the charity for the next quiz in March.

We're holding a Belgian evening on 24th February centred around a selection of beers (what else!) and food.

For all you rugby fans out there, March's event will be a Six Nations, Six Courses evening. Watch out for further details.

Hub News

Stephen Moorhouse from Ubbeston, a familiar figure around the three villages and a stalwart Hub trustee these past four years, has been unanimously elected as chair of the Hub trustees, a position of some importance that has remained vacant since Helen Cannon stepped down as chair in 2020. Here is a brief interview with Steve shortly after his appointment, to ask him about future plans and how he'll approach the role.

Congratulations!

Thank you very much. It's an honour and a privilege, as well as a somewhat daunting challenge.

Tell us about the role, and why you've accepted it.

Important though it is, chair of trustees is not a hierarchical role. The chair is leader of the trustee team – at the moment Carolyn Blundell, Michael Baker, Sara Back, Allan Pike, David Burrows, Jim Whardale and Ken Burnett (NB we're always looking for fresh talent and enth usiasm). My job is to lead and support the management team – that's admin manager Julie Collett and caretaker Alex Dipple – and the other trustees as together we deliver our objectives, top of which is to make The Hub as useful and valuable a community resource as it possibly can be, for all the community in all three villages, while balancing the books and ensuring safety, quality, comfort and enjoyment for all who use the Hub's many services. We're lucky to have The Hub – it's a fabulous venue. We trustees are determined to make the most of it, for the benefit of everyone. I accepted this role because we've had a difficult past couple of years with COVID and have a unique chance now to work together to get our Hub fully functional again.

Why is the chair's role so important?

We're a small village and we all share a common desire to make our community just as good as possible. It's been tough recently, so we want to bring back a sense of good things happening here. The Hub needs to be effective, focused and united, and that calls for fair, consistent and clear leadership. Being a trustee can be quite demanding so it has to be achievable, fulfilling and enjoyable for all. We're a very diverse group, and it's a voluntary role, of course. So, leadership has to be consensual. There are challenges and it won't always be easy, but it will be very worthwhile.

What's planned for The Hub in coming months?

Lots of good things. Top priority is the Queen's 70th Jubilee, which will see a variety of events planned across the three villages. Plans are being laid now to coordinate involvement of all groups and communities, but you can expect a free-for-all barbecue to mark the occasion. Then there's the ceilidh, on 19th March (tickets from The Hub). Regular Hub attractions include bingo, table tennis, our monthly brunches plus many other events, along with a wide variety of fundraising initiatives, which we now need everyone's support for, as the grants that have sustained us through the pandemic have now come to an end. So, do please get involved and support your Hub. Also, we're hoping to put on one or more of the very popular village plays formerly run by the Old Groynes. You'll read all about it in The Hare, of course!

Emma's Column

Thanks to the dozen local residents who made our first meeting of 2022 a very lively event. Much of the public forum centered around graffiti which appeared on new fencing erected on the Carnser towards the end of last year. It has come to light that this fence was accidentally installed in the wrong location due to a misunderstanding earlier in the year and, as obviated by the resulting paintwork, there are individual(s) who feel strongly about its presence. We agreed to arrange a meeting with the Heveningham Hall Estate to discuss possible resolutions. Additionally, two residents submitted further documentation expressing their disappointment with both the Planning Department and the Parish Council following the approval of plans for 4 holiday lodges in the field adjacent to Brick Kiln Lane. As at previous meetings, we pointed out the benefits of a Neighbourhood Plan for the village although a decision has to be made on this (see p 4).

On a more positive note, we revisited our finances in order to avoid the proposed precept increase and we are actually able to implement a small decrease of 1.5% for the coming year. Also, the new handrail beside the steps to the Village Green has been installed and we will now be looking into lighting options for the steps opposite The Hub.

Representatives of the Heveningham Estate were in attendance with proposed plans for The Forge and surrounding area. This will involve the demolition of the current building with the new footprint being moved towards the back of the plot of land. Currently they are waiting for a much-delayed response from Planning. They also asked us to make people aware that the Valley Farm development is a building site and can be dangerous. CCTV is in operation and has highlighted some issues of trespass.

Reports on the footpaths and roads were generally positive although there are some issues still to be resolved which we have in hand.

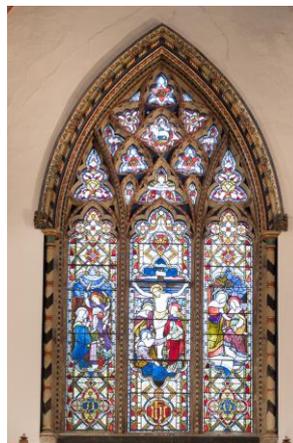

The next meeting will be Wednesday 9th March. Agendas, minutes and associated documentation can be found on the village website:

2022 St Mary's Church Appeal

Parts of Huntingfield church date back to the 10th century and it has been rebuilt and altered over many centuries. You will appreciate that it is both time consuming and costly to maintain this beautiful historic building. The recent Quinquennial report (a survey of the fabric of the building that is required every five years) lists a number of fairly urgent works.

Last year French drains were installed to address the damp issues. In 2022 the target is to raise in excess of £20,000 for urgent maintenance of the stained glass, mainly the Chancel windows which were donated mid-19thC by Lady Lucy Ann in memory of her husband Joshua, the 2nd Baron Huntingfield, who died in 1844. The images represent the annunciation on the left, the visitation on the right and central is the crucifixion. On specialist inspection it was discovered that these beautiful panels are very weak and buckling quite severely which is causing the panes to fracture. They are in urgent need of re-leading.

If you would like to make a donation towards these costs the PCC would be most grateful. We have recently implemented electronic payment facilities and are installing contactless payment at the church so contributions can be made as follows:

In person at the church

by credit or debit card and cash.

The monthly mobile library visits are on Tuesdays – the next dates are 22nd February and 22nd March at the following locations and times:

Heveningham, Forge House 10.30-10.50

Huntingfield, The Hub 15.10-15.30

Petanque

Since the last edition of the Hare the team have had some great games, winning three on the trot! Sadly, we lost our last two matches, both scoring 2 – 1. There is one more league game left on the 6th February and a friendly arranged for the 27th February. I am happy to say we are about mid-table and hoping to improve on that with our final game.

Well done to Sam Sayer for winning his first singles game! We have also been very lucky with the weather over this winter league and I think all the team have enjoyed playing - after one game even managing a pint outside the pub! Onwards and upwards to the summer league.

Neighbourhood Plans..

There has been discussion regarding the development of a neighbourhood plan for Huntingfield. This is a new, government-led way for communities to produce a plan with real legal weight that directs development in their local area.

A lot of work is required to produce and approve the plan so we have been appealing for volunteers to join a working party. However, we have just discovered that the government funding has ended. Without this (which includes specialist support) the workload would be increased so a decision has to be made regarding moving forward. Watch the Hare for future details.

Rules of the road

The new rules

- 1 Priority for pedestrians crossing the road at junctions
- 2 Cyclists should ride in the centre of the lane to be more visible in certain situations
- 3 Motorists turning at a junction or changing lane should not cut across cyclists
- 4 The driver should open the door with their left hand, and the front passenger should open their door with their right hand, forcing them to turn their body and check behind them for passing cyclists

New hierarchy of road users

1. Pedestrians
2. Cyclists
3. Horses
4. Motorcyclists
5. Cars/taxis
6. Vans/minibuses
7. HGVs

Recent changes to the Highway Code are aimed at protecting pedestrians, cyclists and horse riders who are the most vulnerable. Given the prevalence of all three on our local roads and lanes, here's some of the relevant changes. The basic shift is that people facing the greatest risk in the event of a collision - pedestrians and cyclists - are prioritised above motorists, who have the most responsibility to consider others.

A major change is that, at a junction, drivers and riders should give way to pedestrians crossing or waiting to cross a road you're turning into. Previously, vehicles had priority. Drivers should also not cut across the path of cyclists, horse-riders or horse-drawn vehicles when turning, or changing direction or lane, just as you would not cut across the path of another vehicle.

Traffic should also give way to pedestrians waiting to cross a zebra crossing, and pedestrians and cyclists waiting to cross a parallel crossing (a combined pedestrian and cycle crossing). Meanwhile, cyclists should give way to pedestrians on shared-use cycle tracks, and are reminded that only pedestrians (including those using wheelchairs and mobility scooters) can use the pavement. They are advised to place themselves centrally on the road where possible.

All users should take extra care when overtaking more vulnerable road users, leaving at least 1.5 metres (5ft) when travelling at speeds of up to 30mph. More space should be given when driving at higher speeds. At least two metres distance should be left when passing people walking in the road, such as when there is no pavement and horses. When passing horses drivers and riders are advised to slow down to 10mph.

Drivers are also advised to use the "Dutch Reach" when leaving their vehicle: this suggests you use the hand on the opposite side to the door which naturally makes you turn your head to look over your shoulder before opening.

<https://www.gov.uk/guidance/the-highway-code>

Breaking news: Millennium Green

THE PLATINUM JUBILEE 2022

Church Chat

Sadly, we have held a couple of funerals in the last two months: Terry Baker on the 2nd December and Teresa Green on January 6th. Both were long-standing Huntingfield residents and will be much missed. A very sad time for all.

Many thanks to those who came to the Carol Service on December 13th. The flowers and decorations from the wedding the previous day looked fabulous. Chris Bracewell played the organ and had asked some members of the Laxfield choir to lead the singing - they really made the service go beautifully. The Team Choir came to Evensong on the 9th January with Dominic taking the service. It was great to see some from the village attending although not so many for the Communion on the 23rd Jan.

Looking forward, we are currently in the process of organising a programme of events to raise funds to restore the Chancel window (details on page 3). Also, Pamela Holmes, the author of "The Huntingfield Paintress", will be giving a talk fairly soon - hopefully in April. Watch this space and the church notice-board for news of this and other events.

Next Service: Morning Prayer, 27th February at 10am.

New app for walkers, cyclists and riders

Discover Suffolk is our County Council's guide to getting outdoors in our local area by promoting walking, cycling and riding in Suffolk. They have recently launched a new, and free, smartphone App with detailed information and maps for walking, riding and cycling routes throughout the county.

It hosts a comprehensive library of tried and tested trails with high quality Ordnance Survey mapping that fits in your pocket and, given the notoriously intermittent phone signal, you can download details before you set off to avoid the deadspots.

Teresa Jane Green: 1968-2021

It was with much sadness that we received news of the death of a long-standing Huntingfield resident, Teresa Green, who passed away on the 8th December, following a brave battle which kept her with us for longer than initially expected. Teresa leaves behind two sons, Reece and Tyler, who both grew up in the village.

It was a very chilly morning that greeted the mourners on 6th

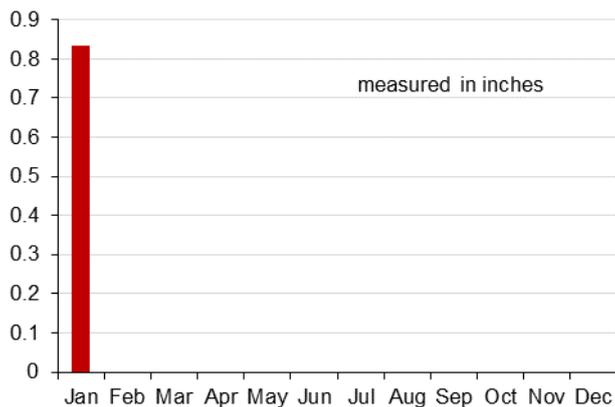

January when they congregated on the Green to pay tribute by following Teresa's cortege on foot to the Church. She had requested that we celebrate her life by dressing in bright colours. Her partner, Charlie Cattermole, had also arranged for the hearse to be pulled by two unicorns as Teresa had a life-long fascination for these mythical creatures. She would have been so pleased to see the impressive parade through the village.

Our sincere condolences to all those who were close to Teresa.

Weather report: December 2021 - January 2022

Normally when writing my weather report, I test our editor's patience to the limit by leaving it as long as possible! Same this month but for a different reason: not rain, but sunshine. The Met office says that in this area January sunshine totals are already 13% above average, whereas the rainfall totals are below average and likely to stay this way with none forecast up to the end of the month. So, comparatively speaking, it's been a relatively dry two months.

This month I've recorded just 0.84" (21.21mm) of rain compared with 4.27" (108.48mm) in Jan 2021. In December last year there was 2.78" (70.66mm) compared with 4.22" (107.31mm) for 2020. Mean daytime temperatures have been above average, and so too the night time temperature, with -3C being the lowest I have recorded. Anticyclonic weather over us has caused the numerous dull days with very little wind (much to the disdain of the windfarm owners) to break up the cloud.

I suppose the highlight of the last two months (not so for the Tongans) were the double jumps in air pressure (there were four in total with the last two being less noticeable) as the shockwave from the Tonga volcano eruption travelled around the world twice, which I recorded on my weather software. Although the increases in air pressure were small, it was enough to affect windspeeds locally for a short while.

February weather - wait and see I think!

Richard Tyler

Budding Ideas

February sometimes finds gardeners desperately looking for some 'real' gardening to get on with. When Spring arrives, everything needs doing at once so February really is one of the best months to get ahead of the game, assuming we don't have snow on the ground as we did last year. This is your chance to finish off winter work and push ahead before either the silly weather kicks in or the growing season starts.

By now you really should have finished all the Winter digging, unless of course you are following the no-dig practice, which I have tried with mixed results this last year. Plan new borders and beds, get them enriched with compost and ready to go for when the serious planting starts. Prepare the soil ready for sowing - if you are growing early vegetables cover the soil with polythene sheeting to warm it up ready for those earlier crops.

I know it is tempting, but often February is the coldest month of the year so try and leave off most planting and sowing unless you are lucky enough to have a heated greenhouse.

If you first pruned your roses in October/November, then February/March is the time to prune back which will revitalise bushes by encouraging them to produce lots of fresh new growth. This also boosts flowering and generally allows you to produce a more attractive shape. Cut dead or dying stems right back to the main stem and remove any crossing stems or those that are rubbing together and spoiling the shape. Make sure you tidy away all old foliage, particularly if it is infected with blackspot - straight into your green bin or burn.

Tie in climbing roses to their support frames and open up to allow air flow. There's nothing worse than blackspot early in the season just as the new buds are developing: by pruning to avoid congestion you allow air through which will make it harder for this unsightly virus to take hold. If you must use chemicals, spray with a blackspot treatment as soon as the new buds start to develop - tackling it early will stop it getting a strong hold on your precious roses.

Another, rather fun job in February is tackling deciduous ornamental grasses which, by now, are looking pretty ragged and in need of a haircut. It doesn't need a delicate hand: get stuck in with your shears and hack the grasses down to about 6 inches. This protects the emerging new grass shoots and tidies them up while the new shoots will quickly grow to hide the old. The fresh growth will look amazing by the end of March.

If you didn't do so in the Autumn, it's time to chop back your herbaceous perennials. This is the first year I've left them to provide Winter shelter for all manner of insects - I'm a convert to this. Now they will be looking soggy, messy and forlorn after the winter weather has taken its toll. Take care and time in cutting them back: leave a little height as this will help to protect the early shoots emerging from the crown.

Finally, take heart! These cold and wintry days can depress the best of us but just think of the sunny days ahead, the fresh green shoots emerging and the delights that our gardens have in store!

Nature Notes

At the time of writing it is a pleasant, sunny, slightly frosty and still Sunday morning but it is, literally the quiet between the two storms of Malek and Corrie.

We have had another mild winter, especially December and birds such as the Skylark are already in full song high over local fields: they, at least, are thinking of Spring.

Some unseasonal flying insects including Red Admiral and Peacock butterflies and Caddisflies have been spotted locally. Caddisflies are closely related to butterflies and are rather moth-like in appearance. They lay their eggs in local lakes and ponds and the larvae construct a mobile protective case in which they move around searching for food.

Some other flying insects such as the Winter Moth you may have seen after dark in your headlights. These and some other species are adapted to live and breed in the winter: they even have a kind of antifreeze in their blood.

We may well have some colder weather in the next few weeks but, like the Skylark, I will be looking forward to the warmer days of Spring. Already Aconites and Snowdrops are in full bloom and other plants have visible flower buds forming. By the end of March our countryside will be greening up, the birdsong will be strongly heard and some species such as Tawny Owl (listen out for their calls at the moment), Mistle Thrush and Blackbird will have young.

Also, some of my favourite birds the summer migrants - Swallow, Chiffchaff, Sand Martin and Blackcap - will be back in our parish having spent the winter in far flung places such as South Africa.

On a tropical theme we recently had an exotic visitor to the lake near Valley Farm. It was an amazing Great White Egret. They are pure white, as large as a Grey Heron and have a long, bright yellow dagger-like beak with which they catch fish and insects.

Also known as Great White Heron, they used to be restricted to Southern Europe, Asia, Africa and parts of America such as Florida. Global warming has seen their range expand hugely: in 1970 as few as 150 individuals were recorded in the whole of Europe. Now there are a few pairs breeding in the West Country and I am sure it won't be long before a pair nests in Suffolk.

Ubbeston Parish Council

The councillors met for the first 2022 meeting on 10th January. No members of the public were in attendance. It was a very brief meeting, with no controversial items coming to light at the moment!

East Suffolk DC are promoting their Treebilee project to all parishes and Ubbeston have registered their interest for an Oak tree to celebrate the Queens Jubilee in June. The planting area is still to be confirmed. Cllr Youngs has begun to clean up the BT kiosk and we have paint ready to smarten it up. Notes from the sheep pen..

This is a quiet time for the team. In the early winter the boyfriends were taken away from us and they are now enjoying a peaceful period of rest and recuperation by the seaside. Floppy hat says they are faring well: a few punch ups with nothing too serious and a pecking order in place, probably until next October. Most of the boys have had a pedicure and the older chaps have seen the dental hygienist to determine their ability to graze grass for the next 12 months. Us girls don't have to endure their constant attention - all that top lip quivering doesn't impress us now we are pregnant!!

The young mothers have received the first of two vaccinations for clostridial diseases while us older girls just need a booster jab in the last six weeks of pregnancy and one for copper deficiency.

This winter we haven't seen too much in the way of lameness which has pleased both us and the team. Some of us have been grazing parsley to remove the excess left behind after harvesting in order to enhance next year's crop. Crutching out (clipping the wool from the business end) has started. It's a back breaking monotonous chore but so essential to reduce problems at lambing time. All we need now is the scanning man and we will be up to date.

And then suddenly it's 2022! We are heavily pregnant and looking forward to lambing which is scheduled to start in late March. The scanning chap has only just started, but the initial results look promising. Floppy hat is hoping this year's maternity team are all available.

A new generation of "floppy hats" will be helping this year with Easter falling in mid-April so a couple of grandchildren will be on holiday from school. It will be difficult to hold them back as I believe they think the 'umble shepherd's sell by date is approaching! Rhys (11) and James (9) are excited to join the team - born to be shepherds - or maybe just pleased to be away from their sister Zoe (7) for a few weeks?

The spell of mild weather we had over the new year had a dramatic effect on the grass and what was beginning to look like very sparse pickings freshened up and, maybe, fooled us into thinking spring was on its way. As a precaution more than half of us have been moved from the estate for a couple of months. Last year's lambs are currently being marketed weekly, mostly through live markets where competitive bidding ensures a fair price.

At this point I feel I should tell you of our visitors from Heveningham, these are five "Badger face shearlings" (first timers). My word they are the naughtiest sisters that old floppy hat has ever come across. They stick together and are always the first to find a gap in the hedge at which point, us, being sheep, just follow.. The silly billies were invited to join us and should now be in lamb, although his Nibs is concerned that one has rather a lot of different raddle marks (these are the colours which come from the boyfriends chests to see what they have been up to). We think she could be a bit of a hussy and was enjoying herself rather too much if you know what we mean!!

Until next time,
Baa from Ewe as in 'you know who'
